The Chair's Report

"What is even more encouraging is the knowledge that this high quality work is mirrored in communities all across Scotland."

I often encourage people to have courageous conversations, as there is tremendous benefit to be gained from getting past the often trivial platitudes of casual conversation. It is heartening that 2007 has been a year where the Foundation has had many significant and challenging conversations in developing its existing grant-making work.

As part of our Annual Away Day in June the Trustees had the privilege of seeing at first hand the inspirational work of some of the charities which we fund. All the Trustees and the Foundation's Foundation (our Staff) visited projects and were greatly uplifted by the tremendous commitment there is to improving people's lives. What is even more encouraging is the knowledge that this high quality work is mirrored in communities all across Scotland. We would not be able to fund charities without our income from Lloyds TSB Group and as always we greatly appreciate everything their hard work enables.

Norman Drummond
Chair

This Foundation continues to be true to the legacy of The Revd Henry Duncan, who founded the Trustee Savings Bank movement and whose enlightened social conscience the Lloyds TSB Foundations strive to emulate. In this spirit the Foundation continues imaginatively to deliver its well established standard grant scheme, capacity building programme, partnership drugs initiative, overseas awards and matched giving scheme for the charitable efforts of staff of the Lloyds TSB Group. However, in 2007 the Foundation in Scotland has also looked at what it might yet become or do, an attribute of which I am sure Henry Duncan would have approved.

This sense of challenge has allowed us to develop Inspiring Scotland, a venture philanthropy fund led by this Foundation which will be launched in early 2008. The result of many courageous conversations with Government, individuals and other grant-making trusts to build investment in this fund, we believe Inspiring Scotland will deliver real and lasting change for the voluntary sector in Scotland.

The Chief Executive's Review

"Our aim is to grow in effectiveness and in doing so remain at the heart of funding Scotland's charities."

As I reflect on 2007 and consider the achievements of the Foundation, I think of the many thousands of staff and volunteers in Scotland and beyond who convert our support into life changing experiences for those in need. This inspires the staff of the Foundation to do more and be a constructive ally to the sector.

This has been a year of considerable development, with the creation of Inspiring Scotland which will invest in charities facing up to some of Scotland's most pressing challenges. Partnership is key, and the Foundation is delighted to have played a leading role in establishing this strategic programme to provide long term funding and secure real and lasting social returns.

Alongside this the core programmes of the Foundation grow stronger. The Standard Grant Scheme continues to be central to our grant-making, embracing the diversity of the charitable sector. Our Trustees remain committed to enabling access for all, and our local funding events mean we reach many projects we may otherwise have missed.

Demand also remains high for the valuable organisational development we fund through the Capacity Building Programme.

The Partnership Drugs Initiative goes from strength to strength and we are delighted it has become an integral part of the range of positive endeavours in the field of drugs and alcohol work.

I have been fortunate to visit a number of the projects funded through our Overseas Programme. The very positive outcomes being achieved owe much to the excellent work of the Scottish based charities through which we channel that support.

More details on what we delivered through all these award programmes follows.

We look forward to 2008 with great excitement. It will see the launch of Inspiring Scotland and a review of the criteria, priorities and principles which guide our work, along with key events such as the Annual Forum. Our aim is to grow in effectiveness and in doing so remain at the heart of funding Scotland's charities.

Andrew Muirhead
Chief Executive

What We Fund

“Lloyds TSB Foundation for Scotland funds charities registered in Scotland whose work is focused on improving quality of life and creating equality of opportunity for people in Scotland. This applies particularly to those who are disadvantaged or marginalised.”

Edzell Pre-school Playgroup

Every three years we consult with Scottish charities to make sure we are still funding work of the most relevance to communities across Scotland, and we'll be doing this in 2008.

We have a number of award programmes each aimed at meeting a different need:

- Our standard grant scheme funds a wide range of work and is targeted at small, grassroots charities.
- Capacity building grants help charities develop themselves by paying for support from independent advisors.
- The partnership drugs initiative focuses on work with children and young people on issues around substance misuse.
- Overseas grants fund work in fragile overseas communities that is managed by Scottish charities.
- Employees of Lloyds TSB Group can apply for matched funding for their own fundraising or volunteering work.

More detail on what we will or won't fund is in our criteria, priorities and principles leaflets. These are on our website, www.ltsbfoundationforscotland.org.uk, or you can call us on 0870 902 1201 and we'll send you copies.

Loanhead Community Learning Centre

Standard Grant Scheme

This award programme funds work led by registered charities in local communities across Scotland. Awards can be for anything from setting up new services to improving facilities or paying salaries, and can be for up to three years. Have a look on pages 19 to 33 to see what we funded in 2007, and at our criteria, priorities and principles leaflet for more information on what we will and won't fund.

Loanhead Community Learning Centre runs a whole range of services, including a café, community garden, after school care club, nursery, special needs groups and youth clubs. It was awarded £32,100 over three years to support the salary of the development worker, bringing the total it has been awarded to over £60,000. Derek Cummings, Director, said: "Over 1,300 people use our centre every week. It's a place where there is space for people of all ages to meet and really engage in community activities. This three year award provides us with much needed security to allow us to continue supporting the local community. We've had funding through the standard grant scheme since 2002, and this has helped us to grow and deliver services that really meet the needs of local people."

There are six rounds of awards each year, so with a deadline every two months you can choose when in the year suits you to apply. However, we always receive applications for far more funding than we are able to provide, and so aren't able to say yes to everyone. To support you to complete your application we hold funding surgeries across Scotland, where you can speak to one of our Assessors. Alternatively, we are also happy to speak to you by phone. If you'd like to make a surgery appointment or ask for advice or an application pack, just call us on 0870 902 1201.

Capacity Building Grants

Often charities put all their energy and money into delivering their core services, leaving no time or resources to develop themselves. We know it is very hard to find support for this type of work, and our capacity building grants are designed to fill this gap.

These awards pay for your organisation to have dedicated time with an experienced independent advisor. Key areas such as governance, financial management, resource and financial planning, information technology, fundraising, communications, strategic development and staff development are addressed. Crucially, the first part of an award will pay for a review of your organisation so your management committee can really understand what is working and what you might want to change. You can apply for a capacity building grant at any time.

Interest Link Borders improves the quality of life for adults with learning difficulties throughout the Scottish Borders by providing a befriending service. In 2007 it received a capacity building grant of £5,392 which paid for a review of the organisation and ten days consultancy on marketing and fundraising. Andrew Findlay, the Co-ordinator, said: “With over 250 people registered for our services, it is vital that we raise enough money to meet the needs of these local people. Working with an independent advisor on improving our fundraising and marketing strategy has given us a better understanding of how we can benefit from taking a more strategic approach in these areas. We’ve also taken away some great practical ideas that are already making a difference to us and the people who we support.”

Funded by the Foundation and the Scottish Government, this programme supports voluntary sector work targeted at:

- Children and young people in families in which parents misuse drugs or alcohol.
- Pre-teen children who are at higher risk of developing problems with substance misuse.
- Young people who are developing or who have established problems with substance misuse.

Partnership working is a key part of this programme, and every group that receives funding works with their local Alcohol and Drug Action Teams and statutory groups. To make sure projects aren't completely reliant on our funding, all the groups which receive awards must identify match funding for at least 50% of the project costs from another funding route.

As the aim is to fund work which will help young people, a group of young people is involved in assessing applications and helping us understand what will actually work. Applications are also considered by a steering group which is made up of people with a wide range of relevant expertise. There are two rounds of awards each year.

As part of an award, organisations are required to attend training on evaluation. This is designed to help projects demonstrate the impact of their work and the positive difference it makes to the children and young people involved, and in turn this is fed back to Government and policy makers.

In 2007, Shetland Community Drugs Team was awarded £56,100 over three years to support the salary and running costs for the young people's service. Ms Gill Hession, Manager, said: “This is our first award from the Foundation and it will help us reach young people before they develop serious problems with drug and alcohol misuse. By working with young people in their own environment it is much more likely they will engage with us, and that is the first step in helping them make informed decisions about drugs and alcohol. Everyone has to make their own choices, so this isn't about telling people what to do, it's about helping them understand the impact of drugs and alcohol on themselves and their families.”

Overseas Grants

Children in front of their new classroom built by the Ribban Children's Trust

Our overseas awards are open to registered Scottish charities managing work in fragile overseas communities.

The Foundation is the largest independent funder of this work, and makes awards which:

- Fund projects which build the capacity of organisations overseas, and develop their ability to advocate.
- Pay costs associated with running overseas volunteering programmes which focus on the development and transfer of skills.
- Support the initiation or continuation of sustainable indigenous projects overseas.
- Pay costs associated with bringing people to Scotland for training, development and study leading to sustainable development.

Sarah Sieley, who grew up in Kenya and set up the Ribban Children's Trust to help children there have a basic education, said: "Our award of £7,408 will allow us to build four new classrooms, meaning that each class in the two schools we support will have a permanent room. Since we began developing these schools, the parents are much more involved in their children's education and the local communities have started using them for meetings. There are almost 350 children aged 3-14 in each school, and the children have much greater opportunities if they have had even a basic education. We are also starting to see more children from these schools passing the highly competitive entrance exams for secondary school places, and pressure is being put on politicians to help other schools reach the same standards."

There is one round of overseas awards each year. In 2008 the deadline for submissions was 14th April and decisions on who will receive funding will be made in August.

In 2007 we increased the amount Lloyds TSB Group staff could apply for to match their fundraising or voluntary work for charities to up to £500 a year. This scheme greatly increases the amount of money going to the charities they support, and encourages staff to get involved with charities in their own areas of Scotland.

Whether it was volunteering for Brownies, Scouts, The Girls' or Boys' Brigade, after school clubs or local charity shops, in 2007 staff gave 5,919 hrs of their time to charities. Fundraising events included everything from asking friends to donate to charity rather than buy birthday presents, running a cake and candy stall, abseiling off the Falkirk Wheel, holding a belly dancing event and climbing Mount Kilimanjaro. From thrill seeking to keeping their feet firmly on the ground, hundreds of staff found a way to take part and raise money for a charity of their choice.

Janell Kelly works with Lloyds TSB Scotland and claimed £500 for The Prince and Princess of Wales Hospice for taking part in the Jog Scotland 5K event. Janell said: "The Hospice provides respite care for terminally patients and support for this families and carers. I choose this charity as my mother's childhood friend was looked after by the hospice and we wanted to do something to support this cause. My mother, sister and myself all took part. This was the first time we had done anything like this as a family and it was really good to get together as a team. I have claimed matched giving now for the past few years and think it's great how charities can get extra financial benefit through this scheme."

A full list of the charities who have benefited through this scheme are given on pages 40 to 42. You can find out more about the staff matched giving scheme at www.itsbmgs.org.

The Foundation's Annual Forum

More Than Just Money

We are interested in helping in other ways than providing funding, and these are some of the things we do:

Application support:

- One-to-one advice on applications is available at funding surgeries throughout Scotland. The full list of dates and locations is on our website www.ltsbfoundationforscotland.org.uk.
- If you can't attend a funding surgery, we'll provide pre-submission advice by phone.
- We can also help with your workshops, seminars and funding forums.
- Our website provides guidance and information.

Events:

- Our annual forum is open to everyone who has applied to the Foundation in the last year – whether successful or not – and provides a great opportunity to meet our staff and Trustees and ask us questions. It is also a great place to network with other people in the sector.
- We have an annual dinner to thank people in the voluntary sector for their hard work and commitment.
- All the Trustees and staff have an away day, and this often includes visiting projects we fund to see first hand the difference the money is making.

- We run workshops on evaluation and networking for groups funded through our Partnership Drugs Initiative.

Communication:

- To make sure we understand how well we are meeting the needs of the voluntary sector, we consult them on all areas of our work.
- Groups who have received awards can get advice and help on getting media coverage and our ISDN equipment is available to help groups deliver high quality media interviews.
- The Partnership Drugs Initiative newsletter shares information and ideas.
- We are always happy to answer queries by phone.
- You are welcome to use the meeting rooms and presentation equipment in our office free of charge.

If you'd like more information about any of these, or if there's something else you think we can do to help, call and have a chat on 0870 902 1201.

Our History

Lloyds TSB Foundation for Scotland is one of four independent charitable trusts distributing 1% of Lloyds TSB Group's pre-tax profits. The Foundation for Scotland receives 19.46% of this amount.

The Foundation began life in 1985, and the merger between TSB Group and Lloyds Bank in 1995 increased the Foundation's income significantly. The Foundation is now the largest independent Scottish grant-making trust, working to support hundreds of Scottish charities each year. Aiming to improve quality of life and create equality of opportunity for people in Scotland, especially those who are disadvantaged or marginalised, the Foundation has always supported local community groups and grassroots charities. It is dedicated to being approachable and working with the voluntary sector to ensure the continued relevance of its funding programmes.

The Foundation is governed by a Board of Trustees who meet six times a year to consider applications and grant funds. Their care and professionalism makes a huge difference to communities across Scotland. The work carried out by the Foundation and the level of awards it makes really does mean it is at the heart of funding Scotland's charities.

"We are dedicated to being approachable and working with the voluntary sector to ensure the continued relevance of our funding programmes."

Looking Forward To 2008

Our aim is to move towards measuring outcomes of the work we fund, so we can understand more about the impact of our funding.

Making The Journey Worthwhile...

As one of Scotland's largest employers, Lloyds TSB Scotland is dedicated to playing its part in strengthening the economic and social base of the country. In 2010, Lloyds TSB Scotland will celebrate its 200th anniversary within the International Savings Bank movement, which dates back to 1810 when the Reverend Henry Duncan of Ruthwell, Dumfriesshire, set up a bank to help his poorest parishioners save for times of hardship.

In March 2007, Lloyds TSB strengthened its brand message, committing to supporting customers 'for the Journey'. This commitment to recognising that people in Scotland undergo different journeys throughout their lives, is demonstrated through the Bank's strong focus on community regeneration, the arts, sports and of course, charitable giving.

Financial inclusion is important to the Bank's strategy and is demonstrated in its partnership with Young Scot, the youth information agency for Scotland. Lloyds TSB Scotland believes in the power of young people to make a difference to the future of Scotland.

In 2007, this partnership made important progress in the world of financial capability by listening to feedback from young people on how to tailor financial services to meet their needs. From this research, Lloyds TSB Scotland became the first bank to accept the Young Scot membership card as account opening ID. Their longer term aim is to simplify the literature that accompanies financial services and further adapt product ranges. This work, coupled with products and services tailored to welcome foreign national customers to Scotland, contributed to the Bank's overall strategic vision to meet the needs of its ever-broadening range of customers.

Corporate Social Responsibility remains at the heart of Lloyds TSB Scotland's operations, which in turn generate economic benefits for the people and the communities where it does business. It is one of the country's leading corporate sponsors. In 2007, the Bank sponsored Young Scot, BAFTA Scotland, the Edinburgh International Festival, Cricket Scotland and other events and organisations. Lloyds TSB is also the official banking and insurance partner of the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games. Furthermore, a number of the Bank's senior managers sit on the boards of charities including Sightsavers International Scotland and Barnardo's Scotland.

Staff across all parts of Lloyds TSB Group in Scotland – Lloyds TSB Scotland, Scottish Widows, Black Horse Finance and Telephone Banking – dedicate a tremendous amount of time and money to many charitable organisations. In 2007, Lloyds TSB Foundation for Scotland made 521 matched-giving awards to staff-selected charities, totalling over £181,000 for staff contribution, including nearly 6000 hours of voluntary work.

Youth Highland

In early 2008 we will launch a new, long term model of funding for charities, building investment from Government, individuals, business and other grant-making trusts. Called Inspiring Scotland, its first investment will be targeted at work with 14 to 19 year olds who are struggling to make a successful transition from school to training, employment or further education.

We'll be reviewing the criteria and priorities for our grant-making in 2009-2011. As always, we'll make sure we involve the voluntary sector in this so they can help shape where our funding is directed.

The Partnership Drugs Initiative will be reviewing its long term strategy.

The information we ask for on our standard grant application form will be reviewed. Our aim is to move towards measuring outcomes of the work we fund, so we can understand more about the impact of our funding.

The first newsletter covering the work of the Foundation will be launched, building on what we've learnt from the Partnership Drugs Initiative newsletter.
